APPROVAL of August 3, 2015, MINUTES

The minutes of the August 3, 2015, Board meeting were provided for approval. On MOTION duly made by Dana Schrad and seconded by Tyren Frazier to approve the minutes as presented. Motion carried.

PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD

Representatives from Youth Corporation, Inc. discussed the organization's work of reducing recidivism through entrepreneurship. Youth Corporation, Inc. offers job training and employment skills and individualized and business mentorship and entrepreneurial training, which will empower at-risk youth and young adults with the necessary skills to become positive contributors to society. Youth Corporation, Inc. provided a packet of information to the Board, which is attached. The Board thanked the group and asked them to contact the Department for further discussion.

COMMUNITY TREATMENT MODEL UPDATE

Andy Block, Director, Department

In 2014 the Department began discussions with the Board on introducing a new approach to working with residents in its juvenile correctional centers (JCCs) called the Community Treatment Model (Community Model). Residents and staff from Bon Air and Beaumont JCCs are present today to share their experiences on the transition to the new Community Model.

The Department started converting units to the Community Model in May 2015 and currently has seven units in operation. The process of converting a unit to the Community Model is complicated and involves training staff on a new curriculum in a block together while still having appropriate supervision of the residents in the JCCs during their absence.

Residents who are housed in Community Model units introduced themselves and discussed their experiences in the new Community Model. The residents believe that the community model approach allows for the following: (i) more open communication with staff; (ii) the staff and the residents feel more like a family; (iii) the staff have become mentors; (iv) the residents are now recognized as people and not judged by past offenses; (v) the residents are given the opportunity to be more creative, such as painting and drawing on the walls; (vi) scheduled activities throughout the day; (vii) the establishment of a vision board to map out the future is an inspiration; and (viii) the mood and mindset of the staff and residents are positive.

The Board posed questions to the residents on what the residents have learned, what additional programs the residents would like to see, and how the Department defines success.

The residents have learned to develop patience; attitudes are beginning to change; and although it might be hard, that second chances are a possibility. Residents would like to see more activities, especially cooking and outside events, a chance to help others, and an opportunity to take college courses. Residents agreed that mentors are needed to help the youth transition back into the community.

Director Block noted that the Department does have two college courses available to residents and is looking to add more classes to the schedule. Director Block also indicated that the Department does not have a mentoring program available in every community. However, the Department is working on a process, which will require a policy change, to make it easier for advocates in the facilities to stay in contact with the residents after their release.

Director Block believes success can be found in the progress of the youth. Are youth behaving in the units and in the community; are there more incidents or a lack of incidents in the facilities; and how are the young people feeling about their experiences with the community model? Director Block stressed that the original goal of the program was for young people in the facilities to be doing meaningful work from the moment they awoke to when they go to bed. Staff satisfaction is another key piece of success. The Department has instituted shorter working days, 12-hour shifts to eight-hour shifts in the transformed units, to help with the mental and physical strains on personnel.

A facility staff member who has worked with the Department for ten years believes the Department is heading in the right direction. The Community Model allows staff to become closer to the residents and build a relationship based on trust. This gives the staff an opportunity to deal with the resident's trauma and whatever is causing certain behaviors. The staff member went on to say that one of the most important aspects of the program is the family because the youth will eventually return. Families are now able to come on the unit to visit and are provided with tools to help keep the resident on track when they return home.

The Board was very interested in receiving feedback from the residents upon their return home about the program and for the residents to continue giving their feedback through the staff on the program's progress. The Board thanked the residents for coming to the meeting and sharing their feelings about the community model.

DIRECTOR'S CERTIFICATION ACTIONS

Ken Bailey, Certifications Manager, Department

Included in the Board packet are the individual reports and summary of the Director's certification actions completed on October 26, 2015. Mr. Bailey highlighted a few of the certification actions.

The 26th Court Service Unit had a difficult time with documentation, especially in the area of social history reports. The unit has a new administration and is working closely with the Certification Team to correct the deficiencies. Director Block certified the unit for one year with a monitoring report in six months.

Aurora House, a group home in Northern Virginia, had 100% compliance.

Chesapeake Juvenile Services and Post-dispositional Detention Program were certified for three years.

Henrico Juvenile Detention Center had issues with critical regulatory requirements in the area of medication, and the Certification Unit was asked to provide a status update. Their certification was extended until the end of this month. The Certification Team completed follow up reports with Henrico Juvenile Detention Center, and they are now in compliance.

Opportunity House, a group home in Lynchburg, had issues with critical regulatory requirements; and the Certification Unit was asked to provide a status update. Their certification was extended six months with a review of those regulatory requirements every four weeks. The Certification Team has been reviewing those reports every four weeks and they are demonstrating compliance. Opportunity House has implemented better monitoring of their physical/TB exams during the admission process.

The Board had no questions.

TIDEWATER YOUTH SERVICES COMMISSION VARIANCE REQUESTS

Janet Van Cuyk, Legislative and Research Manager, Department

Shawn Sawyer, Deputy Director, Tidewater Youth Services Commission

Joe Lloyd, Interim Director of the Apartment Living Program, Tidewater Youth Services Commission

The Tidewater Youth Services Commission (Tidewater Commission) is a public agency working with the Department to start an Apartment Living Program (Program). This will be the first Program of its kind that exists in the Commonwealth. The Tidewater Commission previously operated a similar program, but it was closed due to budget cuts. The Tidewater Commission has come before the Board to ask for three variance requests from two sections of the Regulations Governing Juvenile Group Homes and Halfway Houses (6VAC35-41).

The first variance request is for 6VAC35-41-650 E Nutrition. The Program works with the youth on independent living skills. They will be taught how to grocery shop, budget, and develop their own menus that are nutritional and meet the USDA guidelines. There is not a cook on the premises. The menus developed might not reflect the meal the youth will eat that day. After working late at night, the youth, depending on their energy level, might decide to fix something different from their set menu. The staff would not necessarily be able to monitor the actual meal and whether the youth followed their menu exactly.

The second variance request is for 6VAC35-41-650 C Nutrition. Depending on the hours the youth is keeping, whether at school or at work, the staff would not necessarily be able to monitor whether the youth ate or has eaten within the 15 hours following the evening meal to the breakfast meal. The staff may not have the means to ensure youth are getting meals in that timeframe.

The third variance request is for 6VAC35-41-920 D Staff Supervision of Residents. There are situations when staff will need to leave the Program due to issues with residents. An example would be if a youth were to become ill at work and needs to be brought home. A staff member on duty would need to leave the premises and attend to the youth who was ill. Policies, procedures, and protocols are in place for this type of incident. The residents are aware they cannot leave the premises without first notifying staff. In addition, youth must sign in and out upon arrival and departure from the premises. If staff decides the situation warrants them leaving the premises, they will not be gone for an extended period as there is a requirement for hourly observation of participants.

There was an extended question and answer period on the Program. A summary of the answers about the Program are as follows.

The Program accepts youth transitioning out of JCCs or youth already in the community but for various reasons are not living at home. These are youth who have no family, no home, and nowhere to go except into homelessness or a shelter. Primarily the Program accepts males from across the state but has an interest in being co-ed (one of the four apartments could house females). The Program does not accept registered sex offenders. When a youth first enters the Program, he or she is required to wear a GPS monitor the first 30 days; so staff can know their exact location. The youth are allowed to stay in the Program for four to six months.

The Program staff work closely with the youth's referring parole officer and, in addition, the applicant's packet is reviewed to see if the Program is the appropriate place for the youth. This means making sure the Program can help with the youth's needs, if the youth would be able to follow the guidelines of the Program, and if the youth is motivated to be successful.

The Program teaches independent living skills such as how to budget, grocery shop, and open a checking account. The staff ensures the youth has their source documents such as birth certificate, Medicaid card, and social security card. Staff helps the youth complete applications for work and even role play job interviews. The Program conducts aggressive replacement training groups, independent living groups, and cooking groups. The staff provides the youth with whatever they might need to transition to their own home and be successful.

The Program is located in a condominium complex in Virginia Beach that has four apartments, with eight beds and two residents in each apartment. Bed checks are completed every hour and residents are instructed to sign in and out when entering and leaving the premises. No staff lives onsite, but the Program is manned 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It was requested that the Board envision a condominium complex with four units in one building with the building next door housing the Program's office on the bottom floor. Program staff on duty during the day/evening shift will be either the Assistant Director or Director and a counselor. Program staff during the midnight shift will be one counselor available throughout the night. There might be situations where residents, for various reasons, need transportation back home, while only one staff person is on duty.

Board Member Holland, referring to the variance request, "staff person would be off site for only short periods of time" asked what the Program considers a "short periods of time"?

Mr. Lloyd acknowledged that staff could be away from the premises for 30 to 60 minutes.

Board Member Woolard commented that it does seem that the Board's challenge is to balance wanting to facilitate what the Program is already doing, which is to make sure the youth are secure, with not trying to solve the problems that do not exist yet. Board Member Woolard imagines this variance would be used infrequently and for a relatively short period of time. Board Member Woolard would be reluctant as a Board to put a lot of specific conditions onto the request without having a sense about what the variance will really accomplish.

On MOTION duly made by Helivi Holland that the Board of Juvenile Justice approves the Tidewater Youth Services Commission's variance requests for exemption from the Board's regulatory requirements provided in section 6VAC35-41-650 (E) and (C) and 6VAC35-41-920 (D) of the Regulation Governing Juvenile Group Homes and Halfway Houses involving its planned Apartment Living Program for a period of five years.

Board Member Hines is not as comfortable with the variance on the supervision as he is with the nutrition variances. If personnel are gone for 30 minutes and come back, do a bed check and then the personnel is gone for another 30 minutes, come back and do a bed check. Now there is 12-hour supervision instead of 24-hour supervision. This aspect concerns Board Member Hines, not just for the youth and the staff, but for the safety of the residents that live in the community.

Ms. Van Cuyk said the Board has three options with regards to the variance request that include vote as moved, substitute motion, or amend the variance to include timeframes.

Board Member Langer asked the Board to look at the other side of the issue. If a youth is stranded in the community or needs assistance to get home, this youth's predicament could be a greater safety risk than the youth sitting in the apartment for 30 minutes alone. The opportunity for staff to assist that independent youth in the community is probably the greater danger.

Board Member Hines agrees: if the variance were to be amended to say staff will only leave the premises when they need to assist the youth because that need is greater, Board Member Hines can support.

Ms. Van Cuyk noted that the Board can amend the variance request to include timeframes or to say only "in case of emergencies" shall staff be allowed to leave the premises.

The Board approved the MOTION duly made by Helivi Holland and seconded by Dana Schrad for the Tidewater Youth Services Commission's variance requests for exemptions from the Board's regulatory requirements provided in section 6VAC35-41-650 (E) and (C) of the Regulation Governing Juvenile Group Homes and Halfway Houses involving its planned Apartment Living Program for a period of five years. The Board approved a substitute motion to amend the variance request for 6VAC35-41-920 (D) to limit when the variance is applicable to only emergency situations with the staff leaving the Apartment Living Program for no longer than one hour providing notice of the absence is made to his or her supervisor. Motion carried.

REGULATORY UPDATE

Janet Van Cuyk, Legislative and Research Development Manager, Department

Ms. Van Cuyk noted that the regulatory update can be found on page 80.

Due to time issues, the presentation on the length of stay guidelines has been passed over.

REENTRY UPDATE

Valerie Boykin, Deputy Director for Community Programs, Department
Ashaki McNeil, Reentry Program Manager, Department

In August 2014, the Department received funding from an Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) reentry planning grant of $130,000. The grant allows the Department to assess its parole and reentry systems and provide concrete recommendations to sure up the processes. Part of that involved creating a taskforce of intra- and inter-agency partners who could assist in improving the processes and getting access to services for the youth. The Department has since been awarded an implementation grant of $700,000 with a match from the Department and the Annie E. Casey Foundation that will give the Department just over $1 million. The Department was one of only three states to receive this grant award.

The Department has had initial success with the grant funding by establishing One-Stop Workforce Centers (Centers) located in 15 court service units. These Centers will have computers available that will link directly to local workforce development centers to help the youth with finding employment. The Department is also in the process of setting up Centers in Beaumont and Bon Air JCCs.

Another accomplishment is the success of the Driver's Education (Ed) testing site at Beaumont JCC. This is the first JCC in the nation to have an Ed testing site. Currently, Beaumont JCC is only able to provide the paper test; but the Department is looking at purchasing the simulator. Currently, four students from Beaumont have passed the test.

Historically, youth were not able to apply for Medicaid until after they left a JCC. The Department now has implemented a better process. The youth is able to apply for Medicaid 45-days prior to his or her release, and the coverage becomes effective on the day of his or her release. The Department is also able to cover eligible youth with Medicaid coverage for hospitalization while in the Department's care.

The Department is fortunate to have a Department of Labor grant designated to Pathways, a non-profit entity implementing certification programs to the JCCs. One of the Pathways' programs is located at Beaumont JCC called Youth Build. The residents in this program are actually building pieces that are transported to the community to renovate a house. There is also a Pathways' Career program, which is at Bon Air JCC and offers industry recognized certifications for the youth. Both programs pay the residents for their work, and the money is used to pay off their fines and fees prior to their release. The money left over is given to the youth to take with them and assist with reentry after release.

School reenrollment continues to be a problem area for the Department. The Reentry Taskforce has a subcommittee looking at the reenrollment process and strengthening the regulations so the youth can quickly enroll in the appropriate school after their release. The local school division determines where the youth are placed and many times they are placed in alternative schools. This makes it hard for the youth to ever get back to a regular education setting.

A major effort being undertaken by the Division of Community Programs is to revise the Department's reentry and parole processes. The new processes will have a greater involvement with families at the moment of commitment including being a part of the decision making for their family member.

The Department is also looking at expanding evidence-based programs. The Apartment Living Program (Program) is the Department's first in terms of building continuum of services for the youth. The Department is hoping to award contracts to providers statewide this spring that would expand the array of services available to youth and their families. The Department is also researching more family-based treatments that can fill a critical need for family counseling or other types of services.

Board Member Langer asked what the continuum is for those youth who are entering the Program, who do not have a family or other support, and then their parole ends.

Deputy Director Boykin offered that the youth in the Program are usually employed fairly quickly and are expected to save money for future housing. There is a component that follows up with the youth after they leave the Program to ensure they are transitioning well.

Chief Deputy Director Valentine added that one of the other pieces that the Tidewater Commission provides is called the Apartment Support Program. When the youth leave the program, they will move into their own apartment. When the youth first moves in, they have saved enough money to pay their security deposit. With the Apartment Support Program, their first month's rent the Department pays 75% and the youth pays 25%. The next month its 50%-50% split between the youth and the Department. Then the next month the youth pays 75% and the Department pays 25% or until the youth has saved enough money to they pay their own rent. A case manager continues to track the youth through the Apartment Support Program helping to facilitate a smooth transition.

Engaging families through visitation options is another project the Department is working on under the Reentry Grant. The Department has issued a transportation request for proposal, which closed last December. Hopefully later this year, the Department will be issuing a contract with a vendor who will be able to transport families to the JCCs in order for the families to visit with their youth more consistently.

The Department currently has two video visitation programs in Danville and Roanoke where families can go and visit with their family members who are at either Bon Air or Beaumont JCC via video conferencing. The Department is working with a non-profit organization that primarily works with the Department of Corrections but is interested in partnering with the Department to create another video visitation site for the Richmond Metro Area. In addition each parole officer has a video camera attached to their office computers so, if it is during the day, families can visit with the parole officer and have a video visitation with their family member in a JCC. This is a great opportunity for families located in one part of the state to participate via video conferencing in the decision-making conversations associated with their family member in the Department's care.

The Department would also like to partner with the Department of Social Services (DSS) on their family partnership model with youth in foster care. DSS has frequent family partnership meetings to try to reunite the youth with their family. The Department is working with the DSS to adopt a similar process. The purpose is to keep the family tied together and work with the family on issues prior to the youth returning home.

The Department is also working to set up child friendly visitation sites at Bon Air and Beaumont JCCs. The Department has youth that are parents themselves or have younger siblings; the Department is making these sites a little more family friendly for visitation.

Through the Reentry Grant, all parole staff will be retrained on the YASI, which is the Department's risk assessment tool. With any type of assessment instrument, it is beneficial to retrain and retool employees periodically to maintain the reliability and validity of the instrument. In addition, the Department will also develop a train-the-trainer session to have the internal capacity to train new staff over time to ensure appropriateness in the administration and scoring of the instrument.

EDUCATION UPDATE

Lisa Floyd, Deputy Director for Education, Department
Jill Becker, Director of Special Education, Department

The Division of Education is working hard to update and improve the teaching and learning taking place in the classrooms of the JCCs. Last fall, the Division of Education asked for an audit to receive baseline data on the Department's special education population. The audit has been completed and a report provided. In the meantime, the Department has had several changes of personnel, job duties, and responsibilities. Jill Becker, the Department's new Director of Special Education, prepared a response to the audit and an implementation plan.

The Board was provided a summary plan, which is attached, breaks down the needs improvement areas of the audit and describes the Department's proposed corrective action and timeline related thereto. All items noted on this document have been completed. The audit results allowed the Division of Education to (i) train staff in a group setting or in one-on-one trainings; (ii) bring in other divisions such as Residential Services, including Health and Behavioral Services, to assist in the special education processes; and (iii) to develop checklists to help staff with the details. In addition, an internal audit team has been created to perform mock audits in the spring to track the successes and ensure items do not fall through the cracks.

Board Member Cooper-Collins asked if all areas that were found to be out of compliance have been corrected.

Ms. Becker noted that there is one area that still needs attention dealing with a speech pathologist. Ms Becker went on to report that the Division of Education held its first manifestation meeting, which was a major accomplishment and included other divisions in the process. This will become common practice.

DIRECTOR'S COMMENTS

Andy Block, Director, Department

Six residents in the Department's Quilting Program from Beaumont visited the Governor and First Lady at the Executive Mansion on December 18, 2015. The residents presented them with a very special quilt that took almost a year to complete that depicts symbols of the Commonwealth. Governor McAuliffe was so taken with the quilt that he ordered it hung in the lobby of the Patrick Henry Building and invited the quilting teacher to be his guest at the State of the Commonwealth speech.

Last week the Department met with the consulting team from the Annie E Casey Foundation to review all the work that has been done in the past year and to discuss the work in the upcoming year.

The implementation of the length of stay (LOS) guidelines has been smooth. Through the LOS guidelines, the lowest-risk, least offending youths have shorter lengths of stay and are now being prescreened prior to disposition. This allows the Department to assess these young people in local detention centers instead of bringing them to either Beaumont or Bon Air JCC. The Department is sending them directly to their Community Placement Program.

The Governor introduced his budget prior to the December holidays. There are two pieces of significant importance to the Department in the budget this year. The first piece is having budget language that will authorize the Department to reinvest savings as it becomes available as the juvenile population continues to decline, which will produce a savings. The Department will be able to use that savings to establish a continuum of services and alternatives across the Commonwealth for its youth.

The second piece is proposed in the Governor's bond package for the funding for two new, smaller JCCs that would support the community treatment model in central Virginia and Hampton Roads. The Department has a large number of young people from the Hampton Roads area. Geography can be a real barrier to keep families together and stay engaged. Research was conducted on the Department's determinately committed youth who are most likely to continue to be confined in the JCCs. Approximately 25% of those youth live within an hour's drive of home in the Department's current footprint. If the Department is given approval to build the new facilities, about 75% would live within an hour's drive of home. The total cost of the facilities in the bond package is approximately $90.5 million

BOARD COMMENTS

There were no Board comments.

NEXT MEETING

The next meeting is scheduled for April 18, 2016, at the Main Street Centre, 600 East Main Street in Richmond. Chairperson Abbott stated that she will not be available to attend and that Board Member Hines, as Vice-Chair, will conduct the April meeting.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

On MOTION made by Helivi Holland and seconded by Tyren Frazier for the Board of Juvenile Justice to reconvene in Executive Closed Session, pursuant to Section 2.2-3711(A)(1) and (A)(7), for a discussion of certain personnel matters and to consult with legal counsel and obtain briefings by staff members, consultants, or attorneys pertaining to actual or probable litigation and any other specific legal matters requiring the provision of legal advice by counsel. Motion passed

After conclusion of the Executive Closed Session, the members of the Board certified that to the best of their knowledge, (i) only public business matters lawfully exempted from open meeting requirements by Virginia law were discussed in the Executive Meeting and (ii) only such public business matters as were identified in the motion convening the Executive Meeting were heard, discussed, or considered.

ADJOURNMENT

Chairperson Abbott adjourned the meeting at 12:41 p.m.

Reality Education Television (RETV)

Reality Education Television better known as RETV, is a partnership with George Mason's Social Entrepreneurship Society (SES). This student-led organization, works in the community, to help Reduce Juvenile Delinquency by Providing Juvenile Justice.

Although RETV is created by Youth Corporation Inc, it is owned and operated by the Social Entrepreneur and members of the Business Community. Discover how your business can turn Social Capital into Social Change.

Scholarship, Mentorship, Apprenticeship

Through RETV, YCI is able to create Social Entrepreneurs through Community Service. This is established by using a 3-pronged approach: Educate, Give Back, Reward. Through Scholarships, one juvenile offender begins the education process of workforce development, while a college student begins their journey of Mentorship. Both groups must give back through community service projects in order to participate in any Apprenticeship opportunities offered by YCI. By Creating Social Entrepreneurs through Community Service, a community will be able to Reduce Juvenile Delinquency by Providing Juvenile Justice. In return, participating businesses will receive recognition for their contribution to the effort. Building a community of responsible civic-minded individuals is the greatest reward!!!

Reducing Recidivism- Transforming the Juvenile Offenders to Social Entrepreneurs

By Elizabeth Charity

“Richmond bottomed out in 1994: one city councilman went off to rehab for his heroin problem and another was in hot water for not paying utilities and renting out condemned property, enrollment at VCU dropped, the city recorded the nation’s 19th largest population decline since 1980, Richmond made the wrong end of Money Magazine’s Best Places to Live list, and by the end of the year had tallied a record 161 homicides. With recent years showing the lowest body counts since 1961, the city’s population back up over 200,000, and VCU having greatly expanded, it is difficult to imagine that mid-1990s Richmond was ever real.”

(chpn.net/news/2010/08/15/Richmond-1994_147837)

In 1994, Richmond rated third in the Nations for homicide and being a single mother with two black sons, I didn’t want my sons to be one of the statistic, therefore, I developed and implemented a nonprofit 501c3 organization, Youth Outreach Services. In 1994, the organization was approved for a grant to start a Job Training Program by the former Governor George Allen and he used it as the Virginia Initial Welfare to work program in 1995.

Now, twenty (20) years later, I am graduating from George Mason University with a BIS (Bachelor of Individualized Study) degree with a concentration in Social Entrepreneurship that is transforming the juvenile offenders into social entrepreneurs. To research the effectiveness of programs geared towards rehabilitation and providing employment to juvenile offenders necessary to reduce recidivism in which the students will draw on the disciplines of psychology, criminology, business, communication, sociology, and the contributions of various academic disciplines. Business and Communication will help provide the knowledge and skills necessary to successfully fundraise through social media, television sponsorship, and entrepreneurship training, in addition to also providing ex-offenders with models and opportunities to own their own business. Sociology is needed to help the juvenile offender to build self-esteem, to find self-identity, to learn how to socialize with their peers and to grow into a well-adjusted young adult. Using Youth Outreach Service’s (YOS), 12 week job readiness mentor program, which includes entrepreneurship, rehabilitation, employment, interactions with students as mentors, and business sponsorship, aims to break the cycle of recidivism with the goal of successfully transitioning ex-juvenile offenders into social entrepreneurs. “Social entrepreneurship signals the imperative to drive social change and it is that potential payoff, with its lasting, transformational benefits to society, which sets the field and its practitioners apart” (Martin & Osberg, 2007). YOS seeks to improve the lives of people who are hurting and to bring forth transformation and positive social change, and this study aims to investigate the impact of social entrepreneurship on the problem of recidivism among juvenile offenders.

My main objective is using a 3-pronged approach; business, education and community service. The University establishes a mindset that the student must educate themselves and give back to receive a reward. Therefore, I organized a George Mason University Social Entrepreneurship Society on campus. The rewards to the students are an internship through the businesses who participate in GMU Social Entrepreneurship Society, where they can receive on hands experiences in their major and receive academic credit. They give back by mentoring a juvenile offender and help them to transition back into society. To develop and implement this equation, I used my nonprofit organization Youth Outreach Services as an Experimental Lab this summer to implement YOS 12 week job readiness mentor program. We had college students who need community services hours to come and work with Youth Outreach Services and we had them to work in managerial positions to mentor the other students who participated in the program. They can turn their community services hours into workforce development by applying for employment and using their community services hours as references.

The results of getting a degree in Social Entrepreneurship – Reducing recidivism are as following:

- Ex-juvenile Offenders receives mentoring and financial support to help reduce Recidivism from the businesses that participate in the mentoring program and receive positive publicity through Reality Education Television. RETV is taking the education out of the classroom and bringing it into the community. Reality Education Television is a partnership with George Mason's Social Entrepreneurship Society (SES). This student-led organization, works in the community, to help Reduce Juvenile Delinquency by Providing Juvenile Justice.
- Although RETV is created by Youth Corporation Inc. (Business factor) it is owned and operated by the Social Entrepreneur and the Business Community. Discover how your business can turn Social Capital into Social Change.
- Employment & Rehabilitation can Reduce Recidivism and save the Communities precious resources.
- Develop and implement a non-traditional Career Center for Business & Job Development.
- Submit Research Analysis results to Policy makers in Congress and General Assembly to provide more funding for education instead of incarceration.

In January, 2015, I had the opportunity to submit my research analysis results to the Speaker of the House, Delegate Bill Howell.

And in April, 2015, I had the opportunity to submit my research analysis results To Congressman Robert J. Wittman.

VIRGINIA STATISTICS

- Virginia has the highest rate of referring school children to the police.*

• Virginia blurs the line between criminal offenses and school disciplinary matters. Student discipline should be kept in the realm of school principals, not law enforcement.*

• "Time to Stop Criminalizing Mere Misconduct by Chris Braunlich and Angela Ciolfi in Thomas Jefferson Institute for Public Policy Dec. 25, 2015."

MORE STATISTIC

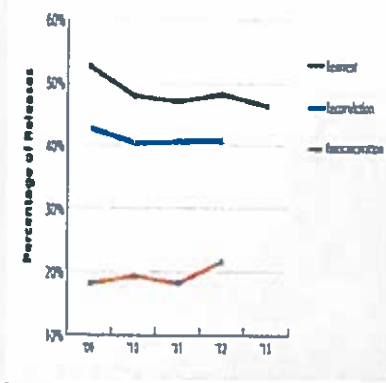

- The U.S. criminal justice system normalizes crime and poverty for a large subset of the population in a cycle known as the school-to-prison pipeline.

• Obama emphasized supporting the reentry population, which would result in "less crime, less recidivism, safer communities, more stable families, and economic growth." (Fox Nixon Rutgers University–Newark).

• A struggling reentry population, racism, and the school-to-prison pipeline are repercussions of the negligence of a system.

VIRGINIA DEPARTMENT OF JUVENILE JUSTICE STATISTICS

Recidivism Within 12 Months of Release from a Juvenile Correctional Center

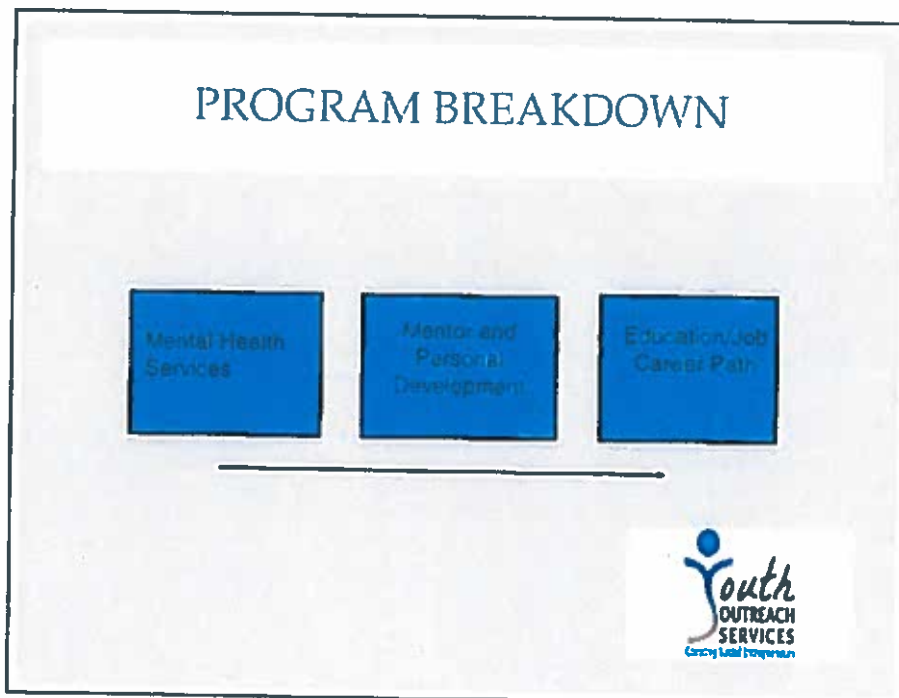

- Tracks re-arrest, reconviction and reincarceration for 12 months after release from a juvenile correctional center.
- In 2012, reconviction occurred for 40.8 percent of the juveniles who were rearrested in 2011; their reincarceration rate rose to 21.6 percent over the previous year.
- In 2013, re-arrest occurred within one year for 46.3 percent of juveniles released from a correctional center, down from the previous year.

HOW WILL YOUTH CORPORATION, INC/YOUTH OUTREACH SERVICES ADDRESS THE STATISTICS

- Create high standards of social and environmental performance, accountability, and transparency.
- Formulate a dynamic organizational structure that uses expertise from different professional fields
- Create a unique working environment for at-risk youth as an outlet from delinquency
- Provide college and business mentors that will educate the at-risk youth about the future implication of becoming an entrepreneur

Youth groups to receive $69,000 for job training

Program will be conducted at old Thalhimer's downtown

BY THE NUMBERS

That's how many youth groups will receive money from the grant to help pay for job training at the old Thalhimer's downtown.

Allen, whose office is located at 1000 N. 1st St., said the program is a pilot project to help young people who are out of school and looking for work.

According to Allen's office, 15,000 youth are unemployed and jobless in the city.

Targeted into three groups

The program money targets three groups of youth, many of whom have had an education with some technical training.

The program is also for youth who have no education, and the program is also for youth who have some education but are not employed.

To Whom This May Concern:

As faculty advisor to George Mason University's Social Entrepreneurship Society, I am pleased to assist in the research of the Youth Outreach Services (YOS) 12-week job readiness and mentorship program. We will work to assist in the study of the YOS program. This program design has great potential to assist young adults (18-28 years old) with opportunities to be mentored on social, interpersonal and employment skills. It is a very critical addition to the service delivery system for those returning from a period of incarceration or under supervision by the probation and/or parole agency.

As an expert in correctional program, we will work closely with the program to integrate evidence-based practices and treatments. We will work with students to implement a process study and to understand how the program participants respond to the program. We will provide $100,000 in in-kind support for guidance in evidence-based programming, quality assurance for program components, and evaluation support. This is based on the contributions of Dr. Faye S Taxman and her team of researchers.

YOS is a program that fosters growth through non-traditional career center. The college students, constructions companies, and architectural firms will design and build the non-traditional career center.

The design of the program is to have the college students' mentor those released from incarceration. The student mentor will help provide a support group while the person can have a job at the YOS facility.

George Mason University students will use YOS nontraditional career center as a research project. Part of Youth Outreach Services' nontraditional career center's plan is to have the college students report information to the local court systems of their findings. This will also serve to strengthen our community and build leaders—among students, those returning from incarceration, community organizations, and others vested in addressing the factors that affect recidivism.

I look forward to working with YOS and feel this is a program design worthy of support. Feel free to contact me by email at ftaxman@gmu.edu or telephone at 571-205-8282.

Sincerely,

Re: Prince William County Student Enrichment Center, 4291 Prince William Parkway

Dear Ms. Charity,

We have reviewed your Phase 1 conceptual design drawings for the proposed Student Enrichment Center in Prince William County. Based on these conceptual documents and your updated program increasing the gross square footage to 6,600 SF on two levels, we have estimated the approximate cost, schedule, and jobs created for the initial phase of the project as follows:

New 6,600 SF building (2-levels) with infrastructure

Conceptual Construction Cost:	Demolition and rough grading	$20,000
	Site Utilities and Infrastructure	$75,000
	Parking Lot (20 spaces) and Drive	$60,000
	Landscaping	$15,000
	New 6,600sf 2 Level Building	$1,089,000

Total Conceptual Construction Estimate $1,259,000

Estimated Construction Duration: 8 months

Construction Jobs Created: Average of 10 workers on site for 8 months = 13,800 man hours or 5 man years.

I hope this information is helpful to you. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions or require any additional information. To support the project Whiting-Turner will donate, if the project proceeds, a cash donation of $15,000 and an in-kind donation of $25,000 (general conditions, materials, fee).

Dear Liz,

Thank you for taking the time to meet with me and share details about your amazing vision for Youth Outreach Services. I enjoyed meeting with you and Daniel Lavelle and am impressed with all you have accomplished including building a strong team of dedicated supporters.

It is our understanding that you are working on securing the property we discussed for a new facility and may need assistance in the planning and design services required. Please accept this letter as our offer to help with the preliminary programming and planning analysis as well as conceptual architectural design services once you have ownership of the property. We will need a civil engineers site survey and plat plan for us to commence consulting services.

All professional planning and conceptual architectural services will be donated to the nonprofit entity "Youth Outreach Services" on a time and material basis for up to the first $10,000.00 in professional fees. This is will be intended to provide conceptual architectural plans and outline specifications for you to engage the necessary MEP and structural engineers as well as a contractor to build the building.

Over the years, MTF A Architecture has worked with many interns in our office to provide professional exposure to the field of architecture. If you ever have students that are in their 3rd year or higher of an accredited professional architectural degree program, please let me know. We would be glad to interview them for consideration as a paid intern in our office.

Thank you again for all you are doing for youth and all the best in your pursuits.

Michael

McCREA HEATING AND AIR CONDITIONING SERVICES OF VA, LLC

5083 Lee Highway Warrenton VA 20187

McCrea Heating and Air conditioning Services, 5083 Lee Hwy, Warrenton, Virginia 20187, will provide their services to Youth Outreach Services for the renovation of the facility at 4291 Prince William Parkway, Woodbridge, Virginia into a commercial non-traditional career center.

Youth Outreach Services provides a valuable framework of stability to trouble youth in Northern Virginia as well as in other regional localities. This organization engages youth who might otherwise contribute to the high rates of recidivism among juvenile offenders. Our organization and methodology affords at-risk youth the prospect of rehabilitation through hands on exercises in Heating and Air conditioning workshops during the renovation stage.

McCrea Heating and Air Conditioning Services will help with this innovative, community based program aims to help at risk teens, ex-juvenile offenders and young adults break the cycle of recidivism by imparting the skills and knowledge necessary to learn heating and air conditioning.

Plumber Company will provide workshops for students coming out of the Juvenile Detention Centers and Youth Shelter and other at-risk and under-serve youth who desire to learn the heating and air conditioning as a trade.

McCrea Heating and Air Condition will participate in Youth Outreach Services 90 day's pilot program which will be submitted to the General Assembly in January 2015 for a grant and eventually be used as the blue-print for the State-wide Program for Reducing Juvenile Recidivism.

Our budget cost for the equipment, labor and training of the students are $8,000.00 we would like to do a year contract with Youth Outreach Services.
