

SAVE A YOUNG PERSON'S LIFE.

BE A PROBATION OFFICER

Of all our employees who work with court-involved juveniles from the time they enter our doors to their return to the community, our probation officers have the most power to be a positive force in their lives.

Probation officers complete social history investigations and court progress reports, formulate supervision plans, decide which community services would best serve the youth, and stay in touch with youth and parents to ensure that they are following a path that will lead to a brighter future.

This rewarding position will allow you to work with people of diverse socioeconomic, racial, ethnic and religious backgrounds, and to make a real and lasting difference in the life of a troubled young person.

If you hold a degree in criminal justice, social work, psychology, sociology, counseling or a related area, and/or have significant experience as a probation officer, we want to hear from you. There are young people in Virginia who need your passion and professionalism.

Log on to www.djj.virginia.gov
and click on "DJJ Careers."

William
Probation Supervisor
Court Service Unit 12–Chesterfield