

UNLOCK MINDS AND THE DOORS TO A BETTER LIFE.

BE A TEACHER AT YVONNE B. MILLER HIGH SCHOOL OF THE VIRGINIA DEPARTMENT OF JUVENILE JUSTICE

The Division of Education at the Department of Juvenile Justice provides opportunities to high school and post-secondary youth through academic programs and extra-curricular events. Yvonne B. Miller High School's course offerings align with the Virginia Department of Education's expectations for students requiring a high school diploma: advanced, standard, or applied studies. Post-secondary programs focus on career and college-ready opportunities. Post-secondary students may earn certifications or credentials. College courses are also offered.

Yvonne B. Miller High School is an alternative school located in Richmond, Virginia. We are looking for teachers with a combination of instructional knowledge and a passion for wanting to be an inspiration in the lives of challenged youth.

We offer an excellent starting salary and a generous benefit package. Small class sizes, extensive professional learning opportunities, and abundant classroom resources contribute to the success of the instructional program.

Qualified applicants should possess, or be eligible for, a Virginia teaching license with one or more endorsements in your area of expertise.

Log on to www.djj.virginia.gov
and click on "DJJ Careers."

